

103 Liberated From Hidden Prison Camp; More Torture

By VERN HAUGLAND

Ofuna Prison Camp, near Yokohama, Sept. 1 (AP).—Ninety-five Americans and eight English prisoners, liberated from the filth of a hidden concentration camp today related the war's most gruesome tales of Japanese bestiality.

They saw one man beaten to death and seven die of malnutrition.

Some were spit on in the streets on forced marches through irate crowds.

Many were compelled to wear metal bits in their mouths for 14 hours at a time.

Others were left with their hands tied behind them for 24 hours.

A 21-year-old pilot, Ensign Fred Turnbull, of Highland Park, Mich., tortured after his carrier plane was shot down over Formosa, said:

"I tried to die and made peace with my God."

"My captors tied my hands behind me, made me lie down and covered me with my parachute," the youthful Michigan pilot said.

"I heard two shots."

Is Shot Twice

Already wounded when shot down, he was too numb to feel a bullet that entered his arm but felt one that pierced his chest.

A Japanese made a practice swing at Turnbull's neck with a sword after he had pulled the prisoner's collar down and an angered Formosan giving him first aid hit him in the back with a bayonet for not moving fast enough.

"At a hospital close to an airfield, shrapnel and bullets were removed without an anesthetic," Turnbull said.

Eight survivors of a 12-man crew on a privateer plane were given the "bit treatment" after their ship had been shot down south of Tokyo August 11.

"The bits were used to keep us from talking," said Naval Lt. John B. Rainel, of Houston, Tex.

Slugged With Rifle

"Every half-hour, they came in to test and, if anyone complained, they made the thing tighter," Rainey added.

Rainey still wears a bump on his head where a guard "tapped me with his rifle but every time he came to the place—just to amuse himself and the villagers."

Evidence of the Japanese brutality shows in facial sores on the men.

After five days of beating by Formosans, Lt. Charles Buchalt, a 23-year-old Pennsylvanian forced to ball from a torpedo bomber, couldn't see.

"They beat me until I was numb all over," he said. "Here at Ofuna I was in solitary confinement five and a half months."

"They beat me up every day, sometimes at night."

Buchalt was released from confinement last March 17 but prevented from talking to anyone until May 7.

Use Fists, Clubs

Lt. Laurel Bolline, 26, Sioux City, Iowa, a member of the crew of a superfortress disabled over Tokyo May 23, related that after he had landed in a field and surrendered, civilians "beat the living tar out of me with fists, umbrellas and clubs."

Another B-29 survivor, Capt. Everett Zewif, Cedar, Tex., landed "right in the middle of Tokyo," he said.

Bailing out of a Navy Hellcat over southern Kyushu, Lt. Russell Stephens, Evanston, Ill., said he believed he killed a man when the latter opened fire at him.

"The civilians put me in a building and lined up outside to take turns beating me," he added. "Later they stripped me and told me they were going to kill me."

Later a schoolteacher stood Stephens in front of children and said "He was going to cut my head off," the Evanston pilot declared.

Turn Arm Sockets

Ensign John R. Bertrang, pilot of a B-24 downed over Formosa said six survivors of the crew were marched through a town while people threw stones at them and clubbed them.

"They stripped us and beat us with a big wet rope until the blood oozed," Bertrang said, adding that they threatened to hang him.

"They handcuffed my hands behind my back, stood me on a chair, tied a ceiling rope to the handcuffs and kicked me off."

"There was a terrific pain like my arms had been torn out of their sockets."

Bertrang couldn't move his arms for months and still hasn't the use of one arm.

YORK YOUTH IS GIVEN YEAR IN COUNTY PRISON

John J. Shenk, Jr., 19, York, who had pleaded "no defense" in an involuntary manslaughter charge following a fatal automobile accident in Bonneauville last May 1, was sent to jail for one year by Judge W. C. Sheely in sentence court this morning.

Shenk also must pay the costs of his case. The court said he may apply for a parole before the end of the year. Shenk was the driver of a truck which collided with the automobile of George W. Martin, Littlestown R. D. Mr. Martin and a daughter, Yvona, were killed in the crash.

Margaret Starrett, Gettysburg, charged with stealing $250 from a soldier in a local hotel, was committed to the state industrial home at Muncy for an indefinite period. Chief of Police Glenn Guise read the court the local woman's FBI record before sentence was passed.

Ernest P. Sharp, Hagerstown, formerly of Mt. Pleasant township, drew suspended sentences on charges of larceny by bailee and fraudulent conversion. He must pay the costs in both cases and was placed on probation for six months during which he must make good an amount due in settlement of the second case.

Fined $100 and Costs
Edgar G. Houser, Jr., 17, New Oxford R. 2, convicted by a jury this week on a charge of hit and run driving was ordered to pay $100 to the county and pay the costs. He was placed on probation for one year. A jail sentence was suspended.

Three drunken drivers faced the court among the first nine defendants and each drew a 30-day sentence. Additional fines varied with the circumstances in the various cases.

G. R. Jacoby, Littlestown, must pay a $50 fine and the costs in addition to serving one month in jail for drunken driving. Robert Boyd, Orrtanna R. 1, was given a $25 fine besides the jail term. J. H. Topper, New Oxford R. 2, received a $50 fine.

Carl D. Neidick, Hampton, charged with permitting Mr. Topper to drive his car while intoxicated must pay the county $100 and the costs of his case. A jail sentence was suspended but he was placed on probation for one year.

Richard Cullison, Orrtanna, charged by state police with resisting arrest, was given six months in the county jail, dating from July 9, the time of his arrest. The court, however, placed him on parole on condition he avoid the use of liquor and use an automobile only for (Please Turn to Page 2)

LT. COL. MOYER IN BERLIN FETE

With the First Airborne Army Occupying Berlin, (By Mail).—Lieutenant Colonel Stewart H. Moyer, of 253 Baltimore street, Gettysburg, Pa., was among those commended by President Harry S. Truman during his stay at the Big Three conference at Potsdam.

The President's commendation, which was addressed to Major General Floyd L. Parks, commanding general of the First Airborne Army and the U. S. Berlin District, read as follows:

"My Dear General Parks:

I have noted with pride and pleasure the excellent service provided us by the officers and men of your command.

The junior officers in charge of billets, post exchanges, transportation and other services have been especially thoughtful and helpful, and have contributed materially to the work of the Conference.

I congratulate you on the morale, courtesy and military smartness of the officers and men of your command who have come under my observation.

(Signed)
Harry S. Truman"

Lt. Col. Moyer, who is a member of the First Airborne Army, was one of the 3,300 officers and men who operated and administered the American section of the Big Three conference area.

Interned Missionary Is Reported As Safe

Miss Margaret Barnes, daughter of the late Rev. W. S. and Agnes (Bigham) Barnes, who formerly resided at the Bigham farm along Marsh creek, has been found safe in a Japanese internment camp according to word just received here by friends from the provost marshal general.

Miss Barnes, who served as a missionary in China, was interned by the Japs several years ago.

The message did not state the condition of her health.

Entertains C. A. R. At Outdoor Meeting

Mrs. P. J. McGlynn, Biglerville, senior president of the Marsh Creek chapter of the C. A. R., entertained the members of the C. A. R. Friday afternoon at an outdoor meeting.

Members conducted a business session and discussed plans for future activities. Miss Barbara Ann Ziegler, Gettysburg, president of the chapter, presided. Refreshments were served.

Those present included Doris Oyler, Jane Oyler, Nancy Baker, Betty Ann Lippy, Barbara Ann Ziegler, Eleanor Wickerham, Mary Ann Elcholtz, Charlotte Rodgers, Mary Groupe, and Douglas Elliott, all of Gettysburg; and Linda Houser, Biglerville. Guests included Mrs. W. C. Sheely, Mrs. John Elliott, and Mrs. C. T. Ziegler.

COUNCIL WILL SELECT PARKING METER SEPT. 4

At a special meeting Friday evening borough council opened bids from four parking meter concerns offering single or multiple coin parking regulators at from $58 to $75 each. In all instances the cost would not involve any outlay for the borough for the meters could be paid for out of receipts of the operation of the machines, it was announced.

Council set next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, the time for the regular September meeting of council, as the time at which they will decide upon the awarding of the contract for the installation of the meters.

Various companies offered to install the meters within from 30 to 90 days and councilmen seemed of the opinion that as soon as the decision on the type of meter to be used has been made "the sooner we can get them in the better."

Give Demonstrations
Two of the bidders—the Miller-meter and the Dual Meter companies—had representatives at the meeting to demonstrate the operation of their own meters and to explain advantages of each.

The other bidders were International Meters, Inc. and M. H. Rhodes, Inc., manufacturers of the Marktime meters.

As the various bids were opened E. V. Bullett, Esq., read to council principal items from the long, detailed bids and then the complete offers with the attached literature were circulated about the council table.

Each bidder offered penny-nickel combination meters with details of time periods and coins to be used usually to be set at the direction of council but the borough fathers are faced with the necessity of deciding between manually operated and automatically wound meters.

At a discussion session which followed the formal meeting it was suggested that information be sought from nearby towns and cities that have used both types of parking devices.

Urges 2-Hour Meter

The first demonstration for council was given Friday evening by C. K. Koontz of the C. K. Koontz Equipment company, of Pittsburgh, offering the Miller multiple coin meter at $75 each. The meter is manually operated, that is, the motorist who deposits the coin or coins turns a handle which sets in operation a timing device that measures the time he has bought.

The meter handles both nickels and pennies with each penny buying 12 minutes and each nickel an hour. Mr. Koontz recommended to council (Please Turn to Page 2)

C. E. WORKERS TO MEET HERE ON OCTOBER 26

A workers' conference of county, district and some state officers of the Adams County Council of Christian Education, will be held in Trinity Evangelical Reformed church on October 26 it was announced at the council's meeting in the YWCA Friday evening. Charles Gentzler, presided as president. There were five vice-presidents and thirteen members present.

It was also decided that the official Sunday school year will close hereafter on September 1. All Sunday schools have submitted their reports and paid their dues for the current year and the report to the state association will be made in the early future. The year had previously ended in October but this was found to be too late to submit annual reports to the state association.

3-Way Conference
At the October 26th conference the business session will be held at 3 p. m. followed by a banquet served by the ladies of the church at 7 p. m.

Mrs. Russell Scoons will represent the local council at the county presidents' and secretaries' convention to be held next Friday and Saturday at the Lewistown hotel, Lewistown. The program for the coming year will be outlined to the officers and delegates. The delegates will be guests of the state association.

On September 23 "Go To Sunday School" will be observed throughout the county.

A three-way conference of adults, teachers of young people and children will be held November 11 in a Gettysburg church to be selected later.

Rev. William Zoller conducted the devotionals at Friday evening's meeting.

A. S. Kuhn Appointed New Auto Dealer

A. S. Kuhn, a native of Bendersville, operator of the Kuhn Auto Sales and Service, 765 Carlisle street, Hanover, has been appointed the new Dodge and Plymouth dealer in Hanover.

Kuhn, who has been in the auto business 13 years as a salesman and dealer, announces that he is doubling the size of the present service facilities offered at his establishment. In addition to offering the best in service facilities, the establishment will operate a 24-hour towing service.

Mr. Kuhn is a brother of Lloyd Kuhn, cashier of the Bendersville National bank.

J. W. Stevenson In State Chess Tourney

J. W. Stevenson, Orrtanna, is representing Gettysburg in the seventh annual Pennsylvania State Chess Federation tournament at Philadelphia today, Sunday and Monday. The tournament, which is being held at the Sylvania hotel, is open to all chess players in the state. About 60 or 70 entrants are expected. The tournament will be broadcast over the Sports Parade program. Last year's tournament was held in Gettysburg.

The first international sports event since the war is being held today, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday—a radio telegraph chess match between teams composed of the 10 foremost chess players in United States and Russia. The United States and Russia are considered the world's foremost chess-playing countries.

MEET AT ENGINE HOUSE

Delegates of the Gettysburg fire company who will attend the Adams County Firemen's association convention at Bonneauville Monday are asked to meet at the fire engine house Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

BRISK BUYING AT MARKET FOR BIG WEEK-END

"Business was brisk at the Farmers' Market this morning as housewives stocked up for a long holiday week-end and local restaurant proprietors stocked up with fresh vegetables, fruit and eggs for expected holiday business. Marketmen said one local restaurant sent an employee to market to buy three crates—90 dozens—of eggs.

Supplies of fruits and vegetables were large at market this morning and string beans, corn beans, tomatoes and red beets were offered by the half bushel as frequently as in smaller quantities.

String and corn beans were $1.50 a bushel and 15 cents a quart box. Tomatoes brought 20 and 25 cents a quart box and $1.25 a half bushel. Some stands offered large tomatoes at two for 15 cents.

Onions sold for 10 cents a box or at the rate of eight cents a pound. Sweet potatoes again were offered at 30 cents a quart box. Squash ranged from 10 cents each to two for five cents. Parsley was five cents a bunch. Peppers were two for five cents.

Corn And Potatoes

Roasting ears sold at most stands at 30 cents a dozen ears. The supply was large. Potatoes sold at 10 cents a quart box, 25 cents a quarter peck, 40 cents a half peck and 75 cents a peck. Cucumbers ranged from one to 10 cents each. Endive was 10 cents a head; shelled lima beans, 25 and 30 cents a pint.

Belle of Georgia peaches, said to be near the end of their season, sold at $3 a bushel. Elbertas were $3.50 a bushel and 25 cents a quart box. A few Summer Rambo apples could be had at $4. Smokehouse apples sold at $3.50 and $3.75 per bushel and 25 cents a quarter peck. Seckel pears sold for $1.25 a peck and $4 per bushel. They were 20 cents a quart box.

Egg prices climbed a cent to 58 cents a dozen. Prices of fryers continued at 60 and 61 cents per pound with a larger supply on hand. Heavier dressed fowls brought 58 and 59 cents. Honey was offered at 30 cents a box.

A new stall filled with needlework was opened at the market house this morning. Pillow cases, quilt tops, children's dresses and other articles were on sale.

LOCAL COUPLE WEDS FRIDAY

Mrs. Clara Fissel, Greenmount, and Charles E. Cook, York street, were united in marriage Friday evening at 7 o'clock in the rectory of St. Joseph's church in Emmitsburg.

They were attended by the bride's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fissel, York. The bride was dressed in aqua with black accessories and her corsage was of red roses. She wore dark blue for her going away outfit. Her attendant was dressed in dark blue.

Mr. Cook is employed as a janitor at Gettysburg college and until recently his bride worked as a cook at the Blue Parrot tea room.

After the ceremony, the couple left on a wedding trip. They expect to return September 8 when there will be a reception at the Greenmount inn where the couple will reside.

RECORDS DISCHARGE

Pvt. John E. Brough, Jr., York Springs R. 1, who served in the Air Corps since January 30, was discharged from service at the Keesler Field hospital on August 16. His discharge has been recorded at the court house.

Japanese May Sign Official Surrender On Missouri Tonight

27 COUNTIANS COMMENDED BY WAR CAPTAIN

The former captain of the 553d Military Police Escort Guard Company, the unit which included a higher percentage of Adams county men than any other outfit serving abroad, has addressed a letter to the members of his organization praising them as being "as fine a body of men who ever wore Uncle Sam's uniform anywhere, any time." The letters were addressed to the men through their parents.

The captain, now at his home at San Rafael, Calif., in his letter traces the services of the company from the time it landed in the shores of France on D-Day plus 2 until the surrender in Germany. The letter discloses four of the men were killed and that two squads of the company served at the famous Remagen bridgehead across the Rhine.

The company, which included 27 Adams county men and which remains on duty in Germany was at Bastogne and saw Aachen, burn. Their duties were chiefly concerned with handling German prisoners, directing traffic and handling burial details.

Their commander was decorated with the Bronze Star medal but in the following letter he gives full credit for that medal to his men.

Praises Men

"TO THE MEN OF THE 553d:—
"With the ending of the war with Japan, I want to write to you all to express my admiration for you as men and soldiers and my sincerest thanks for the many times you have performed dangerous and disagreeable duties without thought of your own safety or comfort. Your willingness to do the best you could was the real secret of the wonderfully fine record the 553d MILITARY POLICE ESCORT GUARD COMPANY wrote across the face of Europe.

"The old 553d was a grand outfit! No outfit did more, nor complained less. No job was too dangerous, no job too tough, no hours too long, no road too rough. Whatever FUSA wanted or expected us to do, the 553d did it. And we did it ourselves; with our own hands and heads and hearts and guts and sweat. We never had to call on any other outfit for help. We did it ourselves!

"It was a proud moment for me when I was awarded the Bronze Star medal, but, fellows, it never fooled me; it is true that I got it, but you did the work that earned it, and wherever that medal and ribbon go, I let everybody know that I'm only wearing it for you and what YOU did, through England—Normandy—Northern France—Belgium—Holland—Germany—back into Belgium—Luxembourg—and finally back into Germany for the final lap.

Land In Normandy
"What days we had together! The landing in Normandy, the terror of handling traffic those first hot, deadly weeks, at Ste. Saviour le Vi-comte, Chef du Pont, Pont l'Abbe; helping the 82nd Airborne handle its prisoners at LaHuy de Puitt; the first dead we saw and the ruins of those first French towns; the race to Paris and then on to Belgium where we all got together again. And then delightful Holland and our first trips into Germany (Please Turn to Page 2)

Hospital Report

Wayne Tonsel, 10, 315 West High street, was treated at the Warner hospital Friday evening for compound fractures of his left index and middle fingers received in a fall from a bicycle.

Janet and Leitha Eline, Littlestown R. 1, submitted to operations this morning for the removal of their tonsils.

Other admissions included Mrs. Clair Taylor, Biglerville R. 1; Mrs. Robert Miller, 116 Carlisle street, and Robert Rohrbaugh, Gettysburg R. 2. Those discharged were Mrs. Sterling Arnett, 339 Carlisle street; Pearl Shryock, Hanover; Richard Scott, Gettysburg R. 4; Mrs. James Tunney and infant daughter, of West Middle street; John Collins, Littlestown, and Mrs. Roy Hankey, Gettysburg R. 2.

A still-born son was born Friday evening at the hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bowers, Emmitsburg.

Washington, Sept. 1 (AP).—The White House announced today that the Japanese surrender ceremonies on the battleship Missouri in Tokyo bay will go on the air at 9:30 p. m., EWT, tonight.

(By The Associated Press)

Yokohama, Sept. 1.—American troops extended their steel grip today along both sides of Tokyo bay, the stage on which will be played out tomorrow the greatest military pageant of the century—the final and formal surrender of the Japanese empire.

Last of the actors to take their places were the Eighth Army men of Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, scheduled to begin their mass landings in the bay sector by nightfall tonight. (A radio report said the landings already had begun.)

Gaunt Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright and his staff who survived the forced surrender of the Philippines and the evil years behind enemy wire arrived to witness the Japanese surrender signatures tomorrow (Saturday night, U. S. time) aboard the battleship Missouri.

Truman On Air Tonight

Exact time of the ceremony was not disclosed, (But President Truman expected to address the United States between 10 and 11 p. m., Eastern War Time Saturday, which would be 11 a. m. to noon Sunday, Japan time.)

General MacArthur, supreme Allied commander over the conquered and obsequious Japanese, laid his plans at a private conference Friday night with Admirals Nimitz and Halsey and Generals Spaatz and Kenney in Yokohama's new Grand hotel.

MacArthur warmly greeted General Wainwright, the man in whose command he left the losing battle to Bataan in March, 1942, when he was sent to Australia to organize the long trek back to victory.

Wainwright made a brief broadcast to the people of the United States, expressing his gratitude "for their generous understanding of my dire misfortune" at Corregidor.

Jap Delay Blocked

Japanese Imperial headquarters made one half-hearted attempt to postpone the national ignominy a little longer by asking MacArthur today for further conferences on surrender terms, but it was declared at this headquarters that the Missouri ceremony would proceed as scheduled.

Already on hand were the representatives of Britain, Australia, New Zealand, France, the Netherlands and Russia.

General Eichelberger, who came in advance of his army, declared, "if the Japanese continue their present attitude, there will be no trouble for them or for us."

If there should be, however, General Spaatz, commander of U. S. Strategic air forces in the Pacific, said that American planes were in position to drop at least 8,000 tons of bombs on Japan if necessary.

Throughout the Pacific, the Japanese were surrendering or arranging to surrender vast forces peaceably. The only untoward incident reported was the attempted escape of three Japanese suicide boats from Hong Kong, where British aircraft promptly sank one, beached another and forced the third back to port.

More Japs Surrender

Surrender of Hong King was to be organized today at conferences between British Rear Adm. C. H. J. Harcourt and the Japanese commander.

In the Philippines, the one time "Tiger of Malaya," Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita agreed to go to Baguio tomorrow and sign surrender articles Monday for the remains of his Philippine army.

At Singapore, which Yamashita conquered in 1942, the Japanese command acknowledged Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten's order to have the government house "ready for occupancy by Sept. 5."

The surrender of 86,000 Japanese in the Solomons, New Guinea and New Britain was to be received by Australian Lt. Gen. V. A. H. Sturdee aboard the aircraft carrier Glory at Rabaul.

The 20,500-man garrison of the Bonin islands was under pledge to surrender Monday after a conference between the Japanese and Americans aboard the destroyer Dunlap yesterday.

The East Indies, last of Japan's major conquests, apparently would be the last to be relinquished. Dutch officials spoke of a matter of weeks before the reoccupation of those rich islands would be settled finally.

Take Formosa Sunday

American troops were scheduled to land on Formosa tomorrow, shortly after the Tokyo surrender signatures, and the island fortress of Truk was to surrender similarly. Marcus island already had surrendered its 2,455 men to the U. S. destroyer Bagley.

Weather Forecast

Scattered brief thundershowers tonight. Sunday fair, cooler and less humid.

CHINESE MEET WITH REDS IS VITAL ISSUE

B. DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Over in Tokyo bay the great man-of-war Missouri swings at anchor amidst the armada of fighting ships, complacent in its massive strength, its decks spotless and its brass gleaming, waiting for the ceremony which will mark the official capitulation of Japan to Allied might.

The Missouri symbolizes the end of the barbaric attempt of the Axis powers to enslave their fellows. It marks a moment of high drama from which it is difficult to turn aside. Still, while we wait for the Japs to sign, we shouldn't overlook that other drama which is being enacted just across from Japan in China—the Chungking conference upon which may depend whether this vast country will be plunged into that most terrible of all conflicts, civil war.

This Chinese development in a way is as important as the official surrender aboard the Missouri. For Japan already is beaten and has lowered her flag, while the fierce quarrel between the Chinese Communists and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government is an active threat to peace in Asia. Patriotic war in China might nullify much of the good achieved by the defeat of Nippon.

Chinese Meeting
The position is that Chinese Communist leaders from the north, headed by Mao Tse-tung, at long last are in Chungking in response to Chiang's invitation for a parley. Major General Patrick Hurley, American ambassador, flew clear up to Yenian to accompany them back to the capital, as a good-will go-between.

That was a step forward, but with the arrival of the Communist leaders in Chungking their central committee issued a manifesto demanding the immediate formation of a coalition government, giving the Communists a full place. This was a reiteration of the demand against which the Generalissimo has been fighting for years. He has had thumbs down on the Chinese Communists—and many bloody battles have been fought between the armies of the two factions.

Thus Chiang is being asked to compromise on his principles. It is a tense moment. If he compromises it means at least temporary peace. If he refuses, all hell may break loose.

Want Conciliations
We now come to one of the high-lights of this second drama being unfolded in the ancient city which clings to the precipitous hillside above the mighty Yangtze. Madame Chiang Kai-shek, who for a year has been in the United States under medical treatment, is racing back home on the appeal of her husband. She says she is "needed there now."

This brilliant, American-educated woman, who ranks among the world's great personages, long has been her husband's right hand. She has been his chief adviser in matters of state, as well as commander and developer of the Chinese Air Force. Indeed, she has been virtually co-ruler of the country and often has been referred to as "the brains of China."

It is significant in the present instance that Madame Chiang has a knack for conciliation, and has turned many of her husband's enemies into friends. You will recall that it was she who, at the risk of her own life, flew into the wilds when Chiang was kidnapped by bandits in 1936 and persuaded them to release him.

REPORT HITLER AIDE CAPTURED

London, Sept. 1 (AP) — Martin Bormann, stocky, square-jawed chief deputy of the Nazi party once rumored to have died at Adolf Hitler's side, was reported by the Berlin radio to be in Allied hands again today.

The broadcast gave no details of where Bormann was or what official announced his arrest.

Shortly before the radio announcement, Associated Press correspondent Charles Chamberlain reported from Hamburg that "British military circles believe that if he (Bormann) is a prisoner, he is in the Russian zone."

Bormann's name appears first on a list of Nazis to be tried as war criminals at Nuernberg next month. Bormann was advanced to the position of Hitler's chief deputy in 1941 after Rudolf Hess made his spectacular flight to Britain. The short, cropped-haired party stalwart was reported to have died with Hitler in the ruins of the Reich's chancellery when the Russians entered Berlin last May.

Subsequently, there have been a number of reports, followed by denials, that Bormann was an Allied prisoner.

Headquarters of Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery announced last night at Hamburg that Nazi Field Marshals Walther von Brauchitsch and Erich Fritz von Mannstein had been interned yesterday by British authorities in Schleswig-Holstein.

She was a member of Grace Evangelical church, the Ladies' Bible Class, the Women's Missionary society and the home department of the Sunday school.

Funeral services Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home with concluding services at Grace Evangelical church, Wrightsville. Burial in Fairview cemetery.

COUNCIL WILL

cil the use of a meter with a two-hour limit using both types of coins. He said his firm has more meters in use in Pennsylvania than any other firm and mentioned Waynesboro, Harrisburg, Hagerstown and Carlisle as nearby towns using the Millimeter. He promised installation in 30 days.

The second demonstration was by Jack Frost of the Dual Meter company who was accompanied to the meeting by Paul Pensinger, local agent for the concern. That firm offered a nickel-receiving meter for $64.50 and a multiple coin meter at $68.

A feature of this meter, as recommended to council, was that all the motorist has to do is insert the coin. A timing device within the meter, requiring winding every three or four days, automatically begins operating when the coin is inserted. Frost said his company has 75,000 meters in operation and said they are used in Chambersburg, Hanover and York in this area. Delivery was promised in 90 days.

Each of the demonstrators described and demonstrated the durability of the cases, the substantial posts and installations, safety devices protecting the coin boxes and the meter mechanisms, the ease with which repairs may be made and peculiar advantages of each in handling, policing and parking details.

The Marktime meter was offered in a written proposal at $58 each and the International Meters Inc., offered a twin meter—a double meter on a single stand serving two parking stalls—at $75 each. Neither of these firms had representatives or meters at the meeting.

During the discussion period that followed the meeting, councilmen considered the question of whether one-hour or two-hour limit meters should be used.

President H. M. Oyler presided at the meeting which was attended by Councilmen L. D. Shearer, George D. March, Harry E. Koch, Fred A. Hummelbaugh, Joseph D. Kendlehart, Vernon Corle and Harry J. Troxell; Mr. Bullitt; Mrs. Anna Dracha, borough secretary; Borough Treasurer John H. Basehore, Burgess Fred G. Pfeffer, and the borough engineer, LeRoy H. Winebrenner.

Eight Children Flee From Blaze

Meadville, Pa., Sept. 1 (AP)—Eight small children fled to safety last night when fire of undetermined origin destroyed the rural home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Willoughby in nearby Vernon township.

Firemen said Mrs. Willoughby, whose husband is overseas, had gone to a show in Meadville with two of her children, while the rest of her family had remained at home in care of three neighbor children.

THOUGHT MATE DEAD; REWEDS; NOW HE'S SAFE

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 31 (AP)—Only twelve days after she had married an uncle of the husband she thought dead, pretty 19-year-old Mrs. Ann Birdwell received the stunning news that her soldier husband was alive and safe—one of the hundreds liberated in the last few days from Japanese prison camps.

Staff Sergeant Gene D. Birdwell, 21, a gunner on a Liberator bomber, was reported by the War Department killed in action over Borneo last October. Twelve days ago his supposed widow married Jack Marshall, 33, an uncle of the sergeant.

"It just leaves me numb," Mrs. Birdwell-Marshall said last night at the home of her parents. "It's wonderful news, but—" And the bewildered bride made a futile gesture dismissing any solution for the present.

Marshall, a garage mechanic in Wichita, Kas., who has four children by a previous marriage, would make no comment about the startling turn of events.

"I won't have anything to say until I hear more about this news," he told reporters. "It is too sketchy, and Ann and I haven't had time of talk about it. She is terribly upset now and I don't think anyone ought to bother her with the future." His bride added, "I don't know what I'll do about it. I'll have to have time to think this out."

in September and October. Those were fast days; those were dying days and days of bombings and strafings and booby traps and burial details so nauseating a fellow couldn't eat again for some time.

"And the days of tragedy and death—the taking of Pollard and Fogarty; of Wyllie and Hilt, may God rest their souls—and terror when night skies were filled with screaming death from Heine planes, or roads and fields were raked with German 88's. In the very center of the Battle of the Bulge, with every man meeting this crucial test with courage and ability far greater than were expected of any of us. How proud your loved ones would be if they could realize, as I know, the superhuman exploits performed by each and every one of you during those exciting, fast-moving weeks! Then came the rush through Germany, shattering the Siegfried line, crossing the impregnable Rhine. But not until the heroism and devotion to duty inherent in each of you were so vividly displayed by Barrack and Richey and their squads at Remagen.

Lighter Moments
"Let's not forget the lighter moments; our stay at Birmingham and Welch House Farm. It was here we really developed the comradeship that was to be our guide in the tough days ahead. But these days soon were replaced. Our first night in a foxhole with terror gripping our hearts as we silently but fervently prayed to God to permit us to see the sun again.

"And the savagery of St. Lo; the first taste of Paris and Brussels; and brave, bomb-torn Liege and those other cities and towns of Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. A visit to them sufficed to bolster our morale for many weeks of bitter warfare. The many friends we made on our journey across Europe; the homes we visited, the people we met and soon called friends, the many kindly acts of the natives; yes, even the milking of the cows, the birth of the pigs and the chicken dinner near Le Mesnil Herman following the St. Lo breakthrough. The churches we attended and the services we held in our bivouac areas, for the Word of God did bring us comfort and hope and solace.

News from Home
"Mail call; how important was that event, opening our letters with a catch in our throats for we never could be sure of the news they brought. Some of it was good;—a baby born, a sick, loved one recovered, good hunting or fishing at home, the many minor pleasures of day to day home life we missed so much.

"Some of it was sad;—death came too often; loved ones no longer caring; sickness and bad fortune. The sadness depressed us for a time but the tragedy had to make way for the work at hand; working to cheat death, working to smash the Hun, working to bring V-E Day nearer and nearer. Work, work, work! Never an end to it. But we truly were happiest when we worked hardest for we knew it meant HOME was that much nearer.

"These were the thoughts I wanted to send you; they bring memories that cement the comradeship among the men of the 553d that will last to the end of our time. No company commander had a finer, nor more loyal group of men and officers than I had and I have thanked God time and again that this was true. Whether in Custer, or Monticello, or Birmingham, or Fortress Europa, you were tops; and our ratings—consistently excellent and even superior—were not accidents, but just appraisals of as fine a body of men who ever, were Uncle Sam's uniform anywhere, any time. Sincerely, Frank Sturken."

AUGUST ENDS IN HEAT WAVE

The heat wave in which August ended helped push its temperature totals above normal August figures here while heavy showers on nine days last month sent the month's rainfall total to a total of 5.17 inches which is 1.13 inches above normal.

The month's average temperature of 71.8 degrees was only a tenth of a degree above August's average but there were three days last month when temperatures of 90 degrees or higher were recorded. The hottest day of the month was August 30 when the mercury reached 91 degrees. The coolest temperatures came on August 11 when the thermometer dropped to 51 degrees.

The heaviest rain of the month fell Friday of last week when 2.18 inches were measured in a 24-hour period. There were nine days on which measurable amounts of rain fell and two on which the total was more than an inch.

Twenty of the month's 31 days were recorded as clear, six partly cloudy and five cloudy. Thunderstorms were recorded August 25 and 31. The highest temperature Friday was 88 degrees.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press.)
As the Eastern league pennant chase sweeps into its last week tomorrow, the league leading Utica Blue Sox can play less than 500 per cent ball and yet gain the flag.

The Sox, defeating the Binghamton Triplets 6-1 last night, stretched their lead over the Albany Senators to six games. The Senators dropped a 10-3 decision to the Hartford Laurels.

The Wilkes-Barre Barons turned back the Scranton Miners, 7-2, in the first of a doubleheader, and lost the second 9-6. The Williamsport Grays downed the Elmira Pioneers, 3-2.

Expect 1,500,000 At School Opening

Harrisburg, Sept. 1 (AP)—School bells will call approximately 1,500,000 Pennsylvania boys and girls back to classrooms next week.

State education officials looked today for the first effects of the return of peace to appear in secondary schools, as the major part of 150,000 older children resume studies interrupted by the need for them in war plants.

"It will present a big problem to school authorities," said Dr. Carl D. Mornewick, chief of the bureau of child accounting and research in the Department of Public Instruction. "As many as 100,000 may return before the 1945-46 term ends."

The official also forecast some of the 18-year-olds now in the armed forces may come back to finish high school courses after they are released from service.

Although a few rural schools started the new term the first of this week, Dr. Mornewick said the Tuesday opening will be "almost universal" in the commonwealth's 10,390 schools.

Courses of instruction will be little changed from those of a year ago, although more emphasis will be placed on world events.

Salt Lake City, Aug. 31 (AP)—Twenty-nine members of the 1941 Utah legislature stand to lose more than $25 a head.

The state auditor and attorney general are working on appropriate means of collecting the money which the legislators voted themselves for a special session, then adjourned five days before its scheduled end.

The pay of each for the five days was $20 but the state is permitted to charge 25 per cent damages and 10 per cent interest yearly in such cases.

LEND-LEASE NOT WRITTEN OFF, BYRNES

Washington, Sept. 1 (AP)—Nations which received lend-lease aid had it straight from Secretary of State Byrnes today that the United States has by no means torn up their I. O. U's.

They will not be asked to pay in dollars because they do not have the dollar credits. But they are on notice that they will be expected to make some kind of settlement.

Byrnes made it clear in a formal statement issued yesterday that President Truman's report to Congress saying the $42,000,000,000 of lend-lease might as well be written off did not mean there would be no settlements of a kind not involving cash.

Victory, reverse lend-lease and the prospect of free postwar trade because of lend-lease operations already had repaid this country, Mr. Truman said.

The state department issued a press release using as a peg for Byrnes' remarks this question:

"In light of the recent lend-lease reports, are we to assume that all lend-lease debts are to be cancelled and the only lend-lease settlements required are settlements for shipments unused or undelivered at the close of the war?"

To this Byrnes replied "there is justification for that assumption."

He went on to say "we are not seeking paper contracts to pay dollars which will not be available to our debtors. But that does not mean that there are no lend-lease settlements to be negotiated."

GENERAL HAYES IS HONORED FOR STRIKE SERVICE

Major General Philip Hayes, commanding general of the Third Service Command who headed the group of officers who came here from command headquarters at Baltimore last month for a two-day conference, was presented the Legion of Merit Thursday at a staff meeting at his headquarters.

The presentation was made by Maj. Gen. Richard Donovan, deputy chief of staff, acting for President Truman.

The award was given for the General's work in connection with the handling of the Philadelphia street railways strike last year.

Ordered End Of Strike

General Hayes, as commanding general of the 3d Service Command, which is composed of Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia, was placed in control of the Philadelphia Transportation Company when the Federal Government temporarily took over operation.

He immediately ordered all street-car workers to return to their jobs, advising them that if they did not, soldiers would start operating the cars.

The citation accompanying the medal, read by Brig. Gen. T. B. Catron, chief of staff of the 3d Service Command follows:

"Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, from August 3 to August 17, 1944, served as War Department representative in control of the Philadelphia Transportation Company.

"Superior Ability"
"He exhibited superior command ability and exceptional knowledge of the problems of organization in preparing and completing plans, and then operating this large and highly complex system.

"Through his forceful leadership and exceptional tact and diplomacy in safeguarding the interests of the company, the public and the Government throughout this entire crisis, he brought about a successful and early termination of army control.

"The normal functioning of the transportation system was essential to the war industries of the city, and General Hayes handled the various groups concerned in a masterful manner. The superior performance of duty contributed materially to the national war effort."

A puncture may be defined as a small hole in a tire usually found at a considerable distance from a garage.

That Unheard Ping

While most of us are worrying over the way engines ping may I just make life a mite harder by interpolating the thought that even the pinging you don't hear can be harmful to a motor. There is, of course, much unheard pinging of engines in noise, traffic, but I am thinking more of a technical variety which engineers recognize. It is a form of fuel detonation that never quite gets above the engine's normal noise level and it is all the more harmful because it can continue for long periods without the driver being aware of it. The excess ping which startles him when he goes to step on the gas invariably warns him to take it easy, so it comes and goes. The unheard kind of ping takes time to do its damage, but, often succeeds. It is best checked by careful timing of the engine. One tip-off is tendency for the engine to overheat when cooling and everything else about the engine is known to be in acceptable condition.

The Motor Primer

Advanced students of the automobile learn in time that there are three separate mechanisms for controlling the spark of modern engines. From top to bottom of the distributor they are: the vacuum control, the mechanical centrifugal control, and the octane selector. The first two are entirely automatic, while the latter is a hand setting, for the mechanic or owner to use when making fine adjustments to take care of varying grades of gasoline. The upper control is operated by engine intake vacuum, but it contains a spring to pull the mechanism back to its starting place when the centrifugal weights swing outward. It should

Useful To Know

If your car is equipped with a vibrating type of overload breaker, as a substitute for conventional fuses, keep in mind that the trick in checking for a ground or a short is to disconnect each circuit one by one until the vibrator stops. If there is any further question you can connect the circuits one by one until the breaker starts vibrating again. That tracks down the guilty circuit in short order.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"Sometimes it pays to know just what parts of the car are not likely to give trouble. Good sample is the electric gas gauge which seldom needs replacement of the dash unit while frequently requiring attention to or replacement of the tank unit. Then there is the fan bearing which will last indefinitely if properly lubricated and not cramped by too tight a belt adjustment.

"The intake manifold may clog with gums and need to be taken off for cleansing, but the exhaust manifold almost never gives trouble. You can't always tell about parts and their capacity for taking it. You'd think those push rods that ride the cams of the camshaft would be worn down in no time. They may develop high spots if clearances are not enough, but when things go wrong with the valve gear the usual call is for a new valve or valve spring."

Bucks In All Speeds

A reader of these remarks about cars finds that the engine of his chariot has a habit of bucking in all speeds. He wants to know if this indicates spark plug trouble, or something wrong with the breaker points. I can assure him that the bucking is a carburetor or choke condition. The engine is getting a too rich mixture and simply can't handle it. Plugs show up as definite misses, so do sticky valves with the addition of noise. If there is black smoke from the exhaust the choke most certainly is not fully open.

In Case Of A "Blow"

We do not hear much advice on what to do when a tire blows out because even the best of drivers do not have much opportunity to practice. Those who manage to bring the car to a safe halt when a tire lets go usually do not remember just what they did or didn't do that helped to save them. Those who did the wrong thing remember largely the visit to the hospital. One rule that seems to fit all cases, however, is to hang on to the steering wheel. It's a pretty good tip to have a firm grasp on the wheel at all times in case hanging on becomes imperative.

Warning is also given to avoid applying the brakes immediately. In fact, some of the experts advise increasing speed slightly to bring the car out of its initial swerve. After you have control then it's time enough to apply the brakes gently and bring the car to a halt.

Keep Them In Mind

Errors in ignition timing often can be traced to failure to give breaker points the proper gap. If the clutch throwout bearing is packed in lubricant never use any gasoline on it. This would dissolve lubricant around the bearing balls.

Unless care is exercised in disassembling the filter unit from an air filter shell there will be air leaks, and thus reduced effectiveness of the device, when the air cleaner is assembled and re-installed.

Thoughts While Driving

It is convenient to go downhill on compression, but puffs of smoke from the exhaust indicate that this is serving to suck oil from the crankcase and burn it off. The slower you go downhill, therefore, the less oil the engine will consume. Taking your foot off the accelerator pedal suddenly will, however, help to cool an engine. This is an old racing trick that still is useful when you are driving on a very hot day or when you must put the engine to particularly hard service. Closing the throttle abruptly forces the pistons to suck up oil.

The more you indulge in such motor "cooling" and the more you drive downhill the more frequently you should have the spark plugs cleaned.

Hotbed Of Squeaks

Ever since car designers started using self-lubricated clutch throwout bearings the temptation has been to diagnose every clutch squeak as an indication that such a bearing needs replacing. Actually a lot of squeaking is in the clutch pedal shaft, around the pedal adjustments or at the pedal mountings. Sometimes a good grade of penetrating oil will reach such bearing surfaces, but in most cases it is necessary to clean them and then grease them. Water pump grease has been found effective in some cases. In one instance it is necessary to back off the pedal adjustment nut, grease it and then tighten it up again.

Queries Of The Week

Q Before having the valves ground the engine of my car had plenty of power but would ping badly. Now it does not ping and sounds better than ever except that it has no power, speed or pick-up and burns much more gas than before. Also it misses continuously. D. M. E.

A Timing is late. The engine should have an ignition check-up at once. Because timing is late the engine runs too hot, takes up the tappet clearance and causes some of the valves to hold partly open.

Q When I unscrew the sight plug on the side of the carburetor no gasoline runs out. Shouldn't the level be set higher? I have some trouble starting. J. M. L.

A No fuel should come out of the sight plug hole. You should just be able to see the fuel level if the level is set right. That starting trouble calls for further checking. Let me have details of make of car and model.

Q My fluid drive car seems to have lost its power to change gears. It is the model with vacuum control of gear shifting. The car stays in high and the fluid drive unit gets very hot. W. G. P.

PRE-AUTUMN DAYS

This is the garden's middle-age; That period of rest between The toiling and the final stage, The golden old and youthful green.

The shaping tasks are all complete. There's little further to be done. The trees, with all their leafage, sweet, Are changing color in the sun.

The splendor of the spring has flown. The summer blooms prepare to go. All things about are fully grown. Awaiting autumn's afterglow.

A few brief days before the close, With killing frosts and north winds cold, When even the humblest bush that grows Will wear a robe of red or gold.

Today's Talk

FROM WHOM ALL BLESSINGS FLOW

Exhaustless are the blessings that the Creator has caused to flow in all directions. Both the poor and the rich are its recipients, but the poor, as a rule, are more receptive and appreciative, for they partake of them more in their free state.

Nature is a storehouse of free gifts, placed there for our selection. Blessings of beauty, food, and spiritual refreshment. Each day of our lives may be made an important event if we will but make note of these blessings that hover so near, and then put them to use in the best manner, according to our desire and ability.

Blessings even come to us in disguise, like illness, disappointment, or the sudden snatching away from our grasp of some prized desire upon which we set so much of our heart. Had it not been for the tragic accident of a fall from his horse, we might never have heard of Alfred Olivanti and his greatest of all dog stories. "Bob, Son of Battle," which also introduced him to a literary career. He wrote this great story while flat upon his back.

I have a friend, a native of Lumbenburg, Nova Scotia, who is a lame-armed cripple, so far as walking around and using his hands is concerned. But he is one of the cheeriest men I have ever met. His name is Earle Bailey, and he is a distinguished painter. He paints with the brush in his teeth, for he cannot use his arms! Blessings seemed to dodge him, but he went after them, collared them, and is devoting his life to their distribution.

Each morning, during these summer days, I have awakened early and listened to the doxology of the birds, welcoming in the new day. It is an inspiring time, for even these feathered friends seem to sing, "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow!"

And from God do these blessings flow, if we but set our hearts in tune with the Infinite Mind, and in humility of spirit give back our praise and our acceptance of gifts so freely given upon every hand.

Bank Will Hold Flower Exhibit:
The Gettysburg National bank has announced its annual flower show for Saturday, September 21. Cash prizes are being offered for various floral arrangements.

Gets Teaching Position: Miss Virginia Troxell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Troxell, Baltimore street, has been elected teacher of mathematics and science in the Dauphin high school.

Young Flier Buried Thursday:
With a simple but impressive service, the funeral of George D. Forney, Gettysburg's ace aviator, was held at the Gettysburg Presbyterian church on Thursday afternoon.

The body of the 23-year-old flier, killed in a crash at Montoursville, Sunday afternoon, was removed from the Bender funeral home to the church in the morning.

The Rev. Frederick B. Crane, pastor of the church, and the Rev. George Landis, of Fayetteville, were in charge of the service.

Belgian Queen Astrid Killed In Auto Crash: (Copyright 1935 by the A. P.) Kussnacht, Switzerland, Aug. 29—Astrid 29-year-old queen of the Belgians, was fatally injured today when the automobile that her husband, King Leopold, was driving swerved off a country road and hit a tree.

She died within five minutes in her king's arms and with his lips on hers.

The king was only slightly injured. Physicians said the chauffeur, who was riding in the rear seat, may die.

Kindergarten To Be Opened Here:
Miss Margaret Howard will reopen a kindergarten school at her home 28 East High street, Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Miss Howard who has had 28 years' teaching experience, said she has provided a playground for the kindergarten children this year.

Teachers Commend Earle, Assembly For State Aid: Gov. George H. Earle and members of the state legislature were commended for their support of the state educational program by a resolution adopted at the Friday afternoon session of the first of the one-day institutes held by Gettysburg and Adams county teachers at Gettysburg high school.

The report of the resolution committee was represented by C. P. Keefer, New Oxford.

Gamma Phi Sorority Holds Tenth Picnic: The alumni association of the Gamma Phi sorority of Gettysburg college held its tenth annual picnic at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Miller, Marsh Creek Heights, Thursday afternoon. After the afternoon's entertainment, a buffet supper was served.

Postal Clerks Commend Town For Reception: Their thirty-fourth national convention ended, delegates to the biennial four-day session of the United National Association of Post Office clerks were en route to their homes in almost every section of the United States on Friday.

Warm in their praise of hospitable reception and entertainment they received here, delegates took home with them pleasant memories of Gettysburg's desirability as a convention city.

Marriage Licenses: Marriage licenses were issued recently at the Carroll county court house, Westminster, Maryland, to Ethel Miller and Glenn A. Himes, Gettysburg, and Hilda M. Eckert and James A. Knox, also of Gettysburg.

County Fruit Grower Is Married Here: A marriage license was issued at the office of the clerk of the courts Thursday afternoon to George O. Heckenluber, a prominent fruit grower of Butler township, and Mrs. Hester M. Longenecker, of Arendtsville.

They were married Thursday evening by the Rev. Howard S. Fox, at the Trinity Evangelical Reformed parsonage.

4-H Girls Hold Roundup: One hundred and fifty members of 11 4-H home economics clubs in Adams county attended the annual roundup at Gettysburg high school on Saturday. Miss Ada F. Beegle is the home economics extension specialist in Adams county.

Wed In Westminster: Miss Marie Lechbaum, Orrtanna, and Carlston Mickley, Gettysburg, were married Sunday evening in the parsonage of the Methodist Protestant church, Westminster. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. J. Earl Cummings. They were accompanied by friends.

FATHER GOES TO TOKYO FOR SONS; 1 DEAD

By HAL BOYLE

With Marine Landing Force in Tokyo Bay (AP)—The middle aged Marine sergeant stood by the deck rail alone, looking toward the western horizon. A rain squall had just passed and scores of American ships dotted the laboring seas.

Still invisible beyond the horizon lay the journey's end—Japan.

"I wish my boys were with me," said the sergeant, forty-six year old Edgar Rush, former construction worker in Washington, Pa.

Rush, a small, silent man with a brown moustache and a deeply tanned and wrinkled face, has six children. Three enlisted in the Marines but one was killed and the other two wounded in action.

So the father was carrying the family banner to Japan alone—for his three sons who could not be there.

Expert Riflemen
All four Marines—father and sons—were expert riflemen. During a four year hitch in the Marines from 1919-1923, Rush served on the Marine corps national rifle team.

He became restless after the outbreak of war and re-enlisted in February, 1942, six months after his oldest boy, Harold, joined up. Two other sons, Donald H., 22, Richard L., 19, followed him one year later.

Rush has three other children—a married daughter, Dorothy, and two boys—Ralph, 12, and Lloyd, 10, at home.

"I am very proud of my family," the sergeant said as he shifted his foot on the rail.

"My oldest boy, Harold, and I were very close. We had worked together in civilian life on building construction. He served through the Guadalcanal campaign and was promoted to platoon sergeant.

Killed on Gloucester
"They used to kid him and tell him he was the poorest shot in the family because he had knocked off only two Japs. He was killed by a machine gun bullet on Cape Gloucester in New Britain while directing fire of his platoon.

"It was two days before he was to receive a battlefield commission. "I couldn't believe it at first when I got the news. I had his picture out for a long time and then I couldn't stand it any more and had to put it away. I missed him more the longer he was gone."

"I wish it had been me instead," he said. "It doesn't make so much difference what happens to you when you are as old as I am."

Two Others Wounded

His son, Richard, was wounded on Saipan and received a medical discharge. His other son in service, Corporal Donald, was wounded on Iwo Jima and is now stationed at the Philadelphia Navy yard.

"Donald and I for a time were stationed together at Parris Island, South Carolina, and talked then of walking down the streets of Tokyo together," Rush recalled.

He thought he would have a chance to revenge himself on the Japanese at Okinawa, but his captain held him to company headquarters area, figuring his first sergeant was too enthusiastic for his own good.

And so this afternoon Rush stood eagerly on deck looking for his first glimpse of the Japanese coast. "I feel my boys deserve to go in more than I do," he said wistfully. "Children are all a fellow has left to live for when he gets up in years. And all three of my boys sure would have liked to land on Japan. We sure could have had a swell reunion in Tokyo."

Unemployment Pay Down This Week

Harrisburg, Sept. 1 (AP)—This week's $201,466 in unemployment compensation payments was $35,000 less than last week's total, the treasury reported—even though thousands of Pennsylvanians lost their jobs in the past few weeks.

The apparent contradiction is explained by the fact that "the impact of V-J Day has not yet been felt, as original applications filed since Japan's surrender have not yet reached the compensable stage," said a spokesman for the state bureau of employment and unemployment compensation.

There is no compensation for the first week's idleness, and then there is a time lag between filing claim for unemployment benefits and receipt of the first check.

The week's actual payments were made in 11,672 checks. That was 1,985 fewer than the preceding week, but 7,675 more than in the corresponding week last year.

Australia is said to be the most level in surface and regular in outline of all the continents.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

Abbott and Costello, America's

No. 1 comedians, come Sunday midnight to the Majestic Theatre in

"The Naughty Nineties," described as the most outrageously comical picture in their long list of funny films. The famous clowns will be seen aboard a Mississippi river

showboat during most of the hilarious action in the new Universal production.

A violent encounter with a gambling syndicate highlights the story in which the resourceful comies eventually triumph over their wicked and unscrupulous adversaries. Appearing in the cast are such eminent players as Alan Curtis, Rita

Johnson, Henry Travers, Lois Collier and Joe Sawyer.

WEDNESDAY

"Wilson," which depicts the highlights of the life of the late President Woodrow Wilson, returns to the Majestic theatre for a one-day engagement Wednesday at popular prices.

THURSDAY, FRIDAY and

SATURDAY

Dennis Morgan, who plays opposite Barbara Stanwyck in "Christmas In Connecticut."

"Christmas In Connecticut,"

Warner Bros.' newest comedy-romance, sparkling with gay humor, opens Thursday at the Majestic theatre. Starring Barbara Stanwyck,

Dennis Morgan and Sydney Green-street, the film tells the joyous story of one sailor's hilarious furlough week-end and of the lovely girl Santa gave him for Christmas.

Featuring S. Z. Sakall, Reginald

Gardner, Frank Jenks, Joyce Compton and Robert Shayne in unique supporting roles, "Christmas In Connecticut" concerns itself with the amazing career of one Elizabeth Lane (played by Barbara Stanwyck), who, though single and a member of the night-life set, poses as an outstanding authority on married life and country living.

HOGAN LEADS BYRON NELSON

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 1 (AP)—

Big time golf took on a new com- plexion today in its third peacetime tournament—the boys were chasing somebody besides Byron Nelson.

This time it's little Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., out in front by two strokes going into the second round of the $13,333 Nashville open, with the favored Nelson six strokes in arrears.

The 135-pound Hogan, staging a comeback after more than two years in the Army Air Corps, fired a seven-under-par 64 yesterday to pace what the pros call "the fastest field since Pearl Harbor."

That gave him a two swing edge over slambang Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., and Jimmy Johnson of Dearborn, Mich., who were knotted at 66.

Nelson, winner of 16 of 21 major tournaments this year wound up with a 70.

Sam Byrd of Detroit, Joe Zarhardt of Norristown, Pa., and amateur Bob Cochran of St. Louis were tied at 67, three strokes back of the leading Hogan.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 1 (AP)—This probably is the final report on war- time sports in Iceland, as Capt. Dave Zinkoff, the island's indefatigable correspondent, is back home.

Zink, whose enthusiasm as as- sistant special service officer and whose vocal efforts as fight an- nouncer, did a lot to keep G. I. sports enthusiasm at a high pitch, reports that most of the Americans have left Iceland but they left their sports behind. "We sold Andrews field house to the Icelanders," he says, "and they're running monthly boxing shows. They hope to make it twice a month. They haven't taken up basketball much, but the sport that really caught on there was bowling. You see, the Red Cross put in two makeshift alleys in Rey- klavik and two in Keflavik and they were in use 13 hours a day. The soldiers began bringing in Icelandic girls to watch them and first thing the girls wanted to try the game. Their enthusiasm is terrific.

IN SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES

One of the highspots of Sgt. Frank Parker's tennis tour of the Pacific was his visit to Admiral Nimitz. Frank didn't play the Ad- miral but he says he would have if invited. "I wouldn't have to worry about winning," he explains. "I'm in the army" . . . Arthur Ehlers, minor league promotion direc- tor, figures the class "AA" leagues may have an easier time next sea- son than the "D" circuits because the draft still is taking the 18-year- olds who might be starting pro baseball careers. . . . When the Keesler Field, Miss., baseball team was short of men, it borrowed four from the softball squad. Then the handballers loaned some to the Post "ten" even though it had a game scheduled the same afternoon. . . . The air forces per- sonnel distribution command team expects to lose a dozen players by discharges before the first game Sept. 23. Perhaps nine others are "possibles" . . . Navy Lt. Billy Soose, former middleweight champ who now is on terminal leave, says he won't return to the ring after his discharge but will join his father-in-law in the knitting business. When Billy's old college coach, Leo Houck, heard that he commented "Some yarn."

"They would wait until he re- turned, and then marry. And he didn't feel she should give up her working interest in the company, if she preferred business. They'd have a home, of course, in Crag- ment preferably, on the highest boulevard where the winds blew in through the Gate to howl under the eaves, where the bay world lay spread out below them.

The hotel lobby was still crowded when they returned. They'd break- fast together; then Mark would take her to the airport.

Jane saw Carla and Don before she saw the newspaper reporters. She wondered a little at the dis- turbed expression on Don's face; observed a voice behind her, "but if you can overlook my stupidity I'd appreciate going with you. I loved her, you know."

Mark Sheridan stood, a lonely figure on the big desert airport. Jane stared at him a moment, won- dering dully how he had reached there so soon.

"An auxiliary; there were no more reservations on your plane. Just as well; I failed you when you needed me. It won't be easy for you to forgive that."

No, it wouldn't be easy. Jane shrugged her shoulders. "Naturally you can visit her with me. There'll be someone waiting for us in Sacra- mento."

There were many awaiting her. Jane looked at the butterfly as- sembly and wondered how Gram must feel, if she could see them. They snatched Jane away from Mark to ply her with questions.

Why hadn't she told them of the state of affairs?

Chapter 31

Mark sent for his car, and when they were in it drove aimlessly for miles until finally on a far, lonely road in Virginia, he pulled along- side a wide shoulder.

"Miss—Jane"—he turned to her sternly—"I—to tell you the truth, I didn't know until tonight what I have been wanting to discuss with you. When I find you alone, you're so efficient, he complained lamely.

"If you'd prefer me inefficient—" "I—damn it all, Jane, you can't blame me. You came in there and did things I couldn't do. I appreciated everything, you know how tremendously, but you—you always looked so—so clean."

Jane gave him a startled glance, then remembered Carla. Carla with her curls and perfume, her ruffles and powder.

"That's not the word . . . Stream- lined, that's it. I liked it . . . in the office, and that time you came to the hospital in that green thing with the red, and on the trip up to Headlands when you wore pink. I kept getting mixed up and—"

"Mark"—she'd have to help the great floundering creature—"you wouldn't by any chance be trying to say that you wanted to love me but you weren't sure whether I was a girl or a business automaton?"

"Wanted to!" he cried. "But I have. I only—I didn't realize until this evening."

"That I was as foolishly femi- nine as any other girl? And so you recognize the symptoms you'd been suffering as love?"

"Jane, could you—"

A Battalion of fireflies caught in the river reeds arose like a magic carpet. Jane knew that she and Mark were on it, flying away to some unbelievable land where there were no pumps, no Carlas, nothing but fantastic moments such as this.

There was business they had to discuss, the business of marriage.

"I've been wanting to tell you," he confided, "the reason Miss Han- sen and I were out together. We're closing out my department; it's performed its duty. I'll be free to return home in a week or so. She insisted she had to see me before I left, and this was the only time I had. I haven't been very nice to her. I could not afford to be seen with her publicly and wouldn't see her privately while in my office."

"They would wait until he re- turned, and then marry. And he didn't feel she should give up her working interest in the company, if she preferred business. YANKEES TAKE DOUBLE HEADER FROM SENATORS

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

When the Yankees sold Hank Borowy to Chicago they supposedly kissed off their 1945 flag hopes but here it is September first and the New Yorkers are only four games out of first place, steaming down the stretch like another squadron of the famous Bronx bombers.

Ernie Bonham and Al Gettel teamed up on the Washington Senators last night in a two-night doubleheader, big Jumbo whipping them in the first tilt, 3-2 and Gettel following up with a 3-1 job in the finale, Washington's largest crowd, 30,036, was on hand.

Cleveland's Allie Reynolds beat Detroit yesterday, 7-2 with the help of Felix Mackiewicz' three-run homer. The Tigers now have lost their last four to the Tribe. They're fifth but only five lengths off the pace.

St. Louis and Chicago were rained out of a game in the second inning. Boston divided two with Philadelphia, the Red Sox bouncing back in the second, 4-2 behind Randy Heflin after Russ Christopher had topped a six-hit, 6-3, job with a home run in the opener.

Cards Beat Cubs

Big news in the National league was the fourth successive decision the St. Louis Cards grabbed from their Chicago "cousins," 4-1, making it 11 out of 14 for the year with eight to go. Buster Adams and Whitey Kurowski slammed Hank Wyse's shoots into the stands to hand the curveball artist his third straight setback before 20,684, St. Louis' biggest night game attendance.

Pittsburgh scored six times in the first two heats and held on to trim Cincinnati, 6-5, after Manager Frankie Frisch and Catcher Bill Salkeld had been turned off the field by Umpire Jocko Conlan.

The Phillies staged one of their rare rallies to shade Boston, 6-5, despite two more hits by Leader Tommy Holmes. Pinchhitter Rene Montague, the converted outfielder-pitcher, drove home the two winning scores for the cellarites. New York and Brooklyn were not scheduled.

BOY, 17, DROWNS

Carlisle, Pa., Sept. 1 (AP)—Fred Jumper, 17, drowned last night while swimming in Conodoguinet creek at the Cave Hill dam. Clyde Handshaw, a soldier home on furlough, dragged the youth from the water, but resuscitation efforts failed.

KUHN AUTO SALES & SERVICE

APPOINTED NEW
DODGE-PLYMOUTH DEALER
in Hanover

"After 13 years in the auto business as salesman and dealer, I am happy to invite my many friends and customers and particularly all Dodge-Plymouth owners to stop in at my new dealership, where I am doubling the size of the present service facilities."

A. S. (ARTIE) KUHN, Dealer.

I AM indeed happy to announce my appointment as new Dodge-Plymouth dealer in Hanover.

My long experience in the auto business has given me a good understanding of the dealer's responsibility to owners.

Accordingly I am undertaking to provide the very best in service facilities. I have taken over all personnel and equipment of the former dealer, H. M. Sterner, and upon completion of the new addition now under construction, will be able to offer complete one-stop service for your cars and trucks.

The new addition doubles the capacity of the service shop, and additional personnel and equipment is being provided to give you all phases of customer service along with a larger showroom and larger parts facilities.

I am stocking a very large and complete supply of Dodge and Plymouth factory engineered parts, and I have the latest in accessories available to Dodge-Plymouth owners.

Kuhn Auto Sales & Service will continue to provide 24-hour towing service.

My used car park and a used car salesroom are part of my main headquarters.

This energetic expansion of my dealership is made in anticipation of the arrival of new Dodge and Plymouth Cars now being engineered for production later in the year.

Dodge Job-Rated Trucks, beginning with the handy half-ton pick-up models, and ranging through every size and engineered for every job up to and including the Light Heavy models, already are available. See us now about your present and future truck needs.

My staff joins me in inviting all the customers of the former dealer and all the vehicle owners of Hanover and vicinity to come in and get acquainted. We have the facilities for prompt and courteous service and very soon will display the most complete line of trucks in the industry.

WE ARE PROUD TO DISPLAY THIS FAMOUS SIGN OVER OUR NEW SERVICE ENTRANCE
